2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

1. Reference is made to the following document:

D1: US 2002/141872 A1 (LEE CHING-PANG ET AL)
3 October 2002

2. The present application does not meet the requirements of PCT Article 33(1) because the subject matter of claims 1-7 does not involve an inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)).

2.1 Document D1 is considered the prior art closest to the subject matter of claim 1 and discloses (the references between parentheses refer to that document):

a coolable layer system (see figures 2-3), consisting of at least a substrate (4) and at least a coating (2, 8) on the substrate (4), cooling channels (10) being used for cooling, the cooling channels (10) at least partly bordering the coating (2, 8) (see figure 3), and at least two cooling channels (see paragraph 0032, lines 12-14) intersecting so that the surface to be cooled is covered by the cooling channels (10).

The subject matter of claim 1 thus differs from the known coolable layer system in that the cooling channels are arranged in groups so that they intersect one another.

The present invention can therefore be considered to address the problem of improving cooling of a layer system.

The solution proposed in claim 1 of the present application cannot be considered inventive (PCT Article 33(3)) for the following reasons:

The arrangement whereby the cooling channels are arranged in groups so that they intersect one another is only one of several obvious possibilities from which a person skilled in the art would choose according to the circumstances in order to solve the problem of interest, without thereby being inventive. Furthermore, there is an indication in D1 which would suggest to a person skilled in the art modification of the arrangement as per document D1 in line with the present invention (see paragraph 0032, lines 12-14). A person skilled in the art would therefore regard the inclusion of this structural measure in the layer system described in D1 as an obvious approach within the scope of normal technical practice.

2.2 Dependent claims 2-7 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the PCT requirements for inventive step. The reasons are as follows:

The additional features of claims 2-7 concern structural arrangements, the inclusion of which in the layer system described in document D1 would be an obvious approach to a person skilled in the art within the scope of normal technical practice.

3. Contrary to PCT Rule 5.1(a)(ii), the description does not cite documents D1 and D2 or indicate the relevant prior art disclosed therein.
